MRS. J. K. FOLTZ WILL BARE LIFE WITH BEN YOUNKIN TO SAVE HUSBAND FROM CHAIR

CASE LISTED FOR MAR. 17

Four Hundred Forty-Nine Cases to Be Presented to Grand Jury, of Which 125 Are for Liquor Violations; Fairchance Homicide Monday.

Four hundred forty-nine cases are listed for trial at the March term of criminal court Uniontown which will open Monday according to announcement today by District Attorney Edward D Brown. Included are [illegible] liquor cases. There are a number of murder trials including that of Jacob K Foltz, who shot Benjamin R Younkin in Connellsville several months ago, which is listed for March 17.

The first case to be called is that of Fred Grim who is accused of shooting Ralph Coldsboro at Fairchance on December 25. Goldsboro was held responsible for breaking up Grim's home. The unwritten law will be the defense. Suspecting that Coldsboro was to pay a visit to his wife Grim lay in wait for him with a shotgun and wounded him in the abdomen. Death did not occur until January 11 and was caused directly by pneumonia which is believed to have been a result of the wound. The Commonwealth will ask [illegible] grec[illegible].

Mrs Foltz, wife of the accused slayer of Benjamin Younkin will take the stand in defense of her husband and bare her alleged relations with Younkin, the knowledge of which so inflamed her husband that he killed Younkin. Mrs Foltz has been standing by her husband since the tragedy. It is understood and is ready to "bare her soul" to save him.

First degree will be sought.

When officers raided the home of Mrs Elizabeth Moskin a widow of [illegible] months at Star Junction they found a half pint of whisky. Though the stock of liquor was low the officers discovered 45 gallons of [illegible]. Judge E H Reppert imposed [illegible] $40 or three months in jail.

George Steudo of Georges township who has a wife and 12 children was in the act of making his [illegible] still when the rap of raiding officers interrupted him. He hid the quarts and he stuff was not fit for use because of his lack of knowledge [illegible] a distiller. District Attorney Brown made a plea for leniency and the court set the fine at $100 with a three-month prison clause. It this is not paid. If it is paid Steudo will be paroled.

[illegible] Smiley of Fairchance was found operating a still he said he procured from Sears Roebuck & Company. It was a 10-gallon size. He was fined $250 and sentenced to [illegible] months in jail a month of which [illegible] must serve.

John Hanusak of Star Junction had an alibi when Judge Reppert commented on the fact that a man of his apparent intelligence was not a citizen of his adopted land. John [illegible] admitted a penchant for making liquor of the kind banned by the Volstead Act said he wanted first to learn the language. He said he knew of men who had been trying to pass examinations for naturalization for 20 years and could not. He has been a resident of the county for 10 years he said. He was fined $350, with a four months jail proviso. If the fine is paid he will be admitted to parole.

EMMETT SIPE'S SHAVING LOTION STORY FAILS

Emmet Sipe's story to Judge E H Reppert that a bottle of liquor found in his possession was used as a lotion after shaving did not convince the court. When Sipe was arraigned in Uniontown today Judge Reppert imposed a fine of $200. If the fine is not paid Sipe must go to jail for four months.

Sipe's home is at Sipe Park on the outskirts of the West Side. He was a candidate for the nomination for State Senate against the late W F Crow and polled a half dozen or so votes.

MRS. THOS. COURTNEY IS INJURED IN MOTOR CRASH ON WEST SIDE

Mrs Thomas Courtney of Uniontown, formerly Miss Marie Opperman of this city suffered an injury to the right leg Thursday night about 8:40 o'clock when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband was struck by another machine in West Crawford avenue near the Western Maryland trestle. The force of the collision caused Mrs Courtney to be thrown against the dashboard of the machine in such a manner that [illegible] were [illegible].

The accident occurred when an automobile said to have been driven by a Fairchance man got stuck in the deep ice ruts in the street. Courtney coming from Uniontown was on his extreme right and the other car was attempting to pull out of the ruts. The driver was experiencing difficulty in leaving the ruts when suddenly the front wheels jumped out swinging the rear around. It crashed into Courtney's car.

As Mrs Courtney was being lifted from the machine to be taken to the office of a physician she fainted and threw up her arm. A valuable gold mesh bag she was carrying was tossed over her head and fell on the tracks of the West Penn Railways Company just as a car passed. The car crushed the bag and destroyed the contents.

Both machines were damaged by the collision and were removed to garages for repairs. Neither of the drivers was hurt.

HEARING ON POSTAL EMPLOYES' SALARY BILL BEGINS MONDAY

Increase to $1,600 Minimum, and $2,100 Maximum Is Proposed.

NO CHANGES SINCE 1920

WASHINGTON Mar 1 — A hearing on the bill introduced by Representative Paige of Massachusetts proposing a re-classification with salary increases for postal employes will begin next Monday before a joint committee of members of both houses of Congress of which Senator [illegible] of New Jersey is chairman and Representative Paige vice chairman. It is expected the hearing will require at least 10 days.

In a statement issued by [illegible] Franciscus president of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks in which 80 per cent of the clerks maintain membership, the facts as to the manner in which Congress has neglected postal employes in the past are set forth as follows:

In enacting legislation for postal employes the Congress of the United States failed hopelessly to keep pace with the growth of the service with the development of new activities or with the constantly shifting economic conditions that have prevailed during the past half century. The salaries paid to all employes in the service are little better today than they were 40 years ago. This in spite of the fact that the purchasing power of the dollar today is less than half what it was 10 or 15 years ago.

Speaking particularly for post office clerks and in order that the public may have an appreciable idea of the legislation considered by Congress in the interest of the clerks let it be said that the clerks were first classified in 1881 and at that time were granted salaries in even hundreds of dollars ranging from $800 to $1,400. The [illegible] was increased at various times until 1907 when it was placed at $840. The maximum salary paid to the clerks however was not increased during all the years from 1881 until 1918. At that time the increase granted by Congress brought the maximum up to $1,500. After two years more or in 1920 the Congress again increased the salaries of the clerks to the present maximum of $1,800 with two [illegible] of [illegible] at $2,100. [illegible] [illegible] the present special clerk grade.

At its annual convention last September [illegible] the [illegible] after several preceding conventions and [illegible] the Congress to reclassify their salaries to establish a minimum grade of $1,600 with a $200 increase annually until a maximum could be reached at $2,100 and to provide for the automatic progression of clerks from the $2,100 grade to the special clerk grade at $2,500 but only after serving three years in the $2,100 grade and with further automatic progression to $2,600 after serving [illegible] year at $2,500. This would give the clerks about $30 a week upon entering the service and $41 a week after serving five years and $50 a week after serving eight years.

Congressman Carl D Paige of Massachusetts chairman of the Sub-Committee of the House Post Office Committee sponsored a bill reclassifying the salaries of all postal employes. As regards the clerks this bill practically proposed the reclassification asked for by the clerks association. From all indications the hearing on this bill will be about the most popular ever held in Congress. Many Congressmen and Senators have already indicated their desire and their intention of appearing before the joint committee and bespeaking favorable consideration for the proposal to increase the salaries of postal employes.

REPUBLICANS PLEASED OVER TAX COMPROMISE

Satisfied Progressives Will Not Aid Democrats in Major Issues.

LAFOLLETTE STILL LOYAL

By United Press.

WASHINGTON March 1—Mellon may disapprove and Coolidge be only half pleased but Republican Administration leaders in the House today [illegible] jubilant over the passage of the tax bill there late yesterday for it bears the label "Republican" because the Progressives who all along had been standing with the Democrats in firm coalition came over at last to their own party.

This development was hailed by leaders to overshadow mere details of a tax bill, for it was taken to mean that the LaFollette Progressives despite their strong disagreement with the conservative wing of the Republican party on most things are not ready to break away from Republican ranks on major issues if it is possible by compromise to remain in the party fold.

LaFollette himself was held responsible today for swinging his followers in the House over to the Longworth tax compromise which permitted the Republican majority to claim authorship of the bill as it was passed and sent to the Senate. He is understood to have advised acceptance of the Longworth proposal.

WASHINGTON Mar 1—The principal provision of the Longworth compromise income tax bill as passed finally by the House are as follows:

Surtax rates—Twenty five per cent less than those in the existing law on the same brackets starting at one and a half per cent on the amount of income in excess of $10,000 up to $12,000. The maximum rate would be 37½ per cent on the amount of income in excess of $200,000.

Personal exemptions—The same as in existing law $1,000 for single persons $2,500 for heads of families whose net income is not over $5,000 and $2,000 for heads of families whose income exceeds that amount.

CONTESTS EVERY POINT

Which by Inference or Otherwise Implies the Existing Schedule of Rates to Be Unjust, Unreasonable and Unlawfully Preferential to Beehive.

Special to The Courier

HARRISBURG, Mar 1 —The joint answer of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Monongahela Railway Company to the complaint of the Rainey-Wood Coke Company before the Public Service Commission, indicates that every point involved in the coking in transit rate case will be vigorously contested.

The railroad companies admit certain facts set forth in the complainant's petition but concerning the bulk of the averments and allegations the respondents state they are without sufficient information to [illegible] all them to admit or deny them. They therefore pray that so far as the same may be deemed material the complainant be required to make due proof thereof.

It is admitted the complainant operates a plant at Swedeland, Pa., but it is asked that proof be furnished in support of the claim that this plant has a capacity to manufacture 500,000 tons of by-product coke and large quantities of by-products per year. Proof is also demanded to show as averred in the petition, that the Rainey-Wood Coke Company was organized as a war facility and that its capital stock is equally owned by the Alan Wood Iron & Steel Company and W J Rainey, Inc., [illegible] proof that the complainant was not only organized as a war facility but also to furnish an economical supply of coke gas and tar for the Alan Wood Iron & Steel Company and for producing a constant market for coal mined by W J Rainey Inc in the Connellsville Region. Proof also is demanded that another purpose in the organization of the complainant was to conduct a business different from the ordinary by-product plant located at blast furnaces and steel plants so that it could be operated continuously and conducted as a separate commercial enterprise.

It is admitted that the defendant companies are common carriers by railroad and public service companies within the meaning of the Public Service Law and that they serve the complainant's plant. The statement that the operation of the Swedeland plant is necessarily continuous and that 100 coal cars which the complainant has acquired for that purpose are of great service the respondents will [illegible] the respondents in were require proof.

Respondents admit that certain bituminous coal mines from which coal is shipped to the Swedeland plant are on their lines but leave it [illegible] for greater certainty to refer to the tariffs published by the Public Service Commission to establish the precise rates charged on such shipments as also the rates on [illegible] from Swedeland.

The averments of the complainant with respect of the two methods of manufacturing coke and the alleged advantages of by-product over beehive that the by-product industry while still in its infancy, is rapidly becoming one of the key industries of the nation and that it tends to stabilize coal mining transportation of coal and the distribution of its products are deemed to be without [illegible] [illegible] to enable the respondents to admit or deny their accuracy.

[illegible] accuracy of the quotation in the complainant's petition from the report of the United States Coal Commission in which recommend that consideration should be given by the railroads to the establishment of coking in transit rates and other [illegible] [illegible] leave to refer to the official publication of the United States Coal Commission.

[illegible] [illegible] not admit that, to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to complainant's plant moves in trainloads [illegible] [illegible] drafts [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] but [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in this [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in paragraph [illegible] complaint. GREENWOOD S. S. PLAYLET ATTRACTS LARGE AUDIENCE

One of the largest benefit affairs ever given in the West Side was a Washington's Birthday party held last night in the Slavish Hall by the Sunday School of the Greenwood Methodist episcopal Church. The entertainment was to have been held Friday night, February 22, but was postponed because of unfavorable weather conditions. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, it being necessary to place extra chairs along the sides and in the rear of the hall. That the audience appreciated and enjoyed every number on the cleverly arranged program was shown by the generous applause. The training of the performers, the decorations and stage setting were in charge of George Pritchard, who donated his services for the occasion, and too much credit cannot be given him for the successful manner in which the affair was carried out, there being not a hitch in the program. To show their appreciation all in attendance gave a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Pritchard. He was also presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. The stage had been converted into a bower of beauty. The scene was a drawing room in an art gallery and the colors were purple, gold and white. White standards of roses, wall pockets of similar flowers and gold eagles adorning the wall added charm to the effect. The doorway and windows were adorned with autumn leaves, while on the front of the stage was an easel holding a picture of George Washington draped with an American flag. The program was opened with a selection by the Firemen's Orchestra, followed by "The Star Spangle Banner," by the audience. A splendid address on "George Washington" was given by Miss Lettie Dull. A flower drill, in which ten boys and girls, each carrying a white hoop decorated with vari-colored flowers, was the next number. During the drill "The Flower Song" was played. Miss Harriet Boyd, cleverly portrayed the role of a new maid. Little Laura Catherine Martin appeared in the role of the "mama" doll and received much applause. "Dreaming" was beautifully rendered by Miss Margaret DeBolt, as was a flute solo, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," by Paul Lamberton. A recitation was well given by Miss Helen Kerns. The audience was then entertained with a delightful solo, "I Dreamed I Dwelt in Marble Halls" by Miss Olive Lunch, of Uniontown. "Always," a vocal solo by Mr. Carlton of Pittsburg, was one of the most pleasing numbers of the program. While Miss Margaret DeBolt sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" a minuet was cleverly executed by four small girls and an equal number of boys. John Bell and H. C. Rush rendered a cornet and violin solo in a very pleasing manner. A Jewish character was well impersonated by Albert Bufano. The closing scene opened with a large birthday cake in the center of the stage. Ladies of the church composed the reception committee and ice cream and cake were served at the close of the program.

REV. AND MRS. PROUDFIT ENTERTAIN CHURCH CHOIR

Members of the choir of the First Presbyterian Church, with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dean sharing honors, were guests at an elaborate turkey dinner given last night at 8 o'clock in the diningroom of the church by Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Proudfit. Covers for twenty-two were laid. The dinner appointments were beautiful, not the slightest detail in arrangements being overlooked. Potted spring plants and ferns decorated the table. A musical program followed the dinner, and a very delightful time was had. A verse composed by Mrs. Proudfit in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dean was sung by the choir to the tune of "Good Bye Ladies." Mr. and Mrs. Dean responded by singing an appropriate verse, also composed by Mrs. Proudfit. Mrs. J. Raymond Mestrezat, Mrs. Clyde W. Downs, Mrs. D. E. Trcher and Mrs. H. C. Gardner were Mrs. Proudfit's aides. The occasion will be remembered by the guests as one of the most delightful events they ever attended. Mr. and Mrs. Dean, who are members of the choir, expect to go to Pittsburg to reside, Mr. Dean, who was assistant storekeeper for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, having been transferred to that city.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Red Light Traps Insects

A means for combating the winged insect pests of tropical regions has been evolved, by means of which the flying bugs are lured into a deadly bath of acid and either drowned or asphyxiated by the fumes.

It was found that red light served as an almost irresistible lure for the night-flyers.

A red electric bulb, or a lantern with a red globe, is placed near the vessel containing the acid solution. As the pests fly to the light the fumes destroy them even though they may not actually fall into the bath.

To protect human beings from possible accidental contact with the acid bath, the liquid is placed in a wide-mouthed bottle, to which is attached a funnel with a very broad flaring cone. The light is suspended directly over this funnel, and the insects, stupefied by the acid fumes, fall into it and go into the acid bath.—New York World.

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE U. S.

120 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.

Incorporated under the Laws of the State of New York

There are Equitable policies for all life insurance needs—policies to strengthen the business and credit of individuals, firms, and corporations; policies to pay inheritance taxes; to settle estates; to aid in the purchase of homes; to safeguard mortgages; to educate children; to support men and women in old age; to protect employees through group insurance. But the most important public service rendered by the Equitable is to assure protection for the family and home under policies providing in various ways for the payment of the insurance money in the form of a monthly income for life. Thus the beneficiaries are protected against waste or loss. In this way the Equitable provides insurance that insures—protection that gives permanent protection. The Equitable's public service is further indicated by the distribution of its funds throughout the United States in conservative investments, including dwelling and farm loans.

BOTH PETTY AND PARTISAN.

The refusal of Governor Pinchot to re-appoint John M. Phillips as a member of the State Game Commission is very properly protested by the Mount Pleasant Hunting & Fishing Association as it will be no less emphatically protested by many other like organizations and citizens as well.

The sole ground of the governor's objection to re-appointing Mr. Phillips is the refusal of the latter to stultify himself by promising after he has taken the oath of office to uphold the Constitution and to observe the laws of the Commonwealth, to give his personal pledge to the governor that he will obey all laws including the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act.

Mr. Phillips, like all honorable and conscientious citizens, holds that his oath is of itself sufficient proof of his intention and purpose to be both law-respecting and law-abiding, and that his personal pledge in addition is unnecessary, as it is humiliating. To those who know Mr. Phillips and are familiar with the conscientious and self sacrificing work he has done in the interests of game propagation and protection in Pennsylvania, and the entire absence of partisan politics in the conduct of the Game Commission, can view Governor Pinchot's attitude as none other than both petty and partisan. It is all too apparent an attempt to build up an organization of state officials and employes who are in effect pledged to be the personal adherents of the governor's policies and promoters of his political ambitions rather than to stimulate them to faithful, loyal and efficient service in behalf of the state.

The refusal to re-appoint Mr. Phillips belongs in the same category as Governor Pinchot's demand for the resignation of Dr. George P. Donehoo, state librarian. Both men are conceded to be unusually well qualified for their respective positions and have brought to their work an enthusiasm, interest and efficiency extremely rare in public officials. A chief executive who is desirous of elevating the standards of public service, as Governor Pinchot has loudly proclaimed himself to be, ought to welcome the opportunity to secure the services of such men as Mr. Phillips and Dr. Donehoo. That he is permitting a personal whim and an arbitrary and unreasoning attitude, to drive men of high character and exceptional qualifications out of the service is causing the public to believe that the pretensions of Governor Pinchot in this respect are hollow and insincere and that his sole motive is the creation of a group of officials whose loyalty to him transcends their obligations to the state.

Every such incident as the refusal to re-appoint Mr. Phillips merely serves to strengthen the public in its view, no matter how profuse or emphatic may be the denials by the governor.

THE RUGGED HONESTY OF TWO LIVES

Although men of widely different personal characteristics the late James C. Moore and John B. Davis resembled each other in one particular which made them valued and useful citizens of the community. Both were influenced in their relations with all men by an honesty of purpose and method in their transactions to which they steadfastly adhered throughout their lives.

The word of each was accepted as good as their bond and no statement made by either involving a business matter was ever called in question. The inflexible personal integrity of each of these men who have passed to their final reward entitled them to be held in highest esteem by those who knew them even by reputation without enjoying the pleasure of intimate personal acquaintance with them. To the close associates their relationship with the lately deceased developed into sincere admiration for the splendid traits outstanding in the [illegible] two men.

[illegible] Connellsville has suffered [illegible] men who belonged to that [illegible] in the life of the community [illegible] to ideals of rugged [illegible] regarded as the first essential in the building of character and of business.

BEING NEIGHBORLY.

All corporations are not wholly soulless and unappreciative much as some of them may have offended in these particulars in days gone by. This fact has no better proof than that given by the West Penn Railways Company.

In acknowledgement and appreciation of the neighborly assistance given during the impairment of its service by the sleet storm of last week the company has made a public announcement, the unaffected object and purpose of which is a desire to fully express our debt of gratitude to patrons who so patiently and considerately bore with us during the long interruption.

We are, the statement concludes, deeply indebted to kindly neighbors who rendered assistance and protection to stranded passengers and employes by opening their homes and placing their private automobiles at the disposal of the company.

It is not only right to be neighborly in times of need but the right kind of neighbors are always appreciative of services so rendered.

It might not be inopportune at this time to require to whom has Governor Pinchot given his personal pledge that he will obey all laws including the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act?

If the doctors keep on making new discoveries for the relief of pain dying may become a popular pastime.

Short Talks on Advertising

No. 29.

People used to say, "Oh, I never pay any attention to advertisements; they never tell the truth."

Now it's different. People do read advertisements and they believe them. Advertisers are becoming more careful and more scrupulously truthful every day.

I know a firm of advertising agents who also own a medicated soap. I said, "Is it really such a wonderful thing and do you take the care you say you do in making it?"

The answer was "Of course it is a good thing. We have seen too much of advertising to be fools enough to spend money pushing a poor article."

Most all advertisers understand this nowadays and that is why it pays better than it used to.

The best place to put an advertisement is in the paper that enjoys the confidence of the community. I believe that the standing of the paper reflects on the advertisements it carries. There is another thought, which never occurred to me, but which was conveyed in a remark recently made to me by the advertising manager of one of New York's leading department stores. He said:

"A sleepy paper gathers a sleepy constituency. An alert, wide-awake progressive sheet gets readers who like that sort of thing—or lifts them to its level."

Wide-awake people are the ones most influenced by advertising—progressive people who are not afraid of a new thing or a new idea; people who believe in the paper they read because they have learned to trust it.

Depend upon this. If the editorials carry weight the ads will pay. Put your trust and your money in this sort of a paper.

This is certain. A readable to an unreadable paper will be read. Probably not by all of the readers of the paper but by a sufficient number to make the ad pay if the goods are right. No doubt about it whatever. It's as sure as sunshine. A cloudy day comes sometimes but it doesn't stay long.

Castles of Your Dreams

THE happiness of many young couples is due to the realization of an ambition to have their own hearthstone, their own roof over their heads.

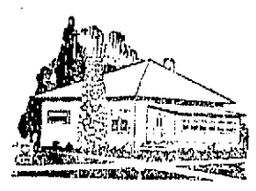

Prepare for the young ones you may now have, or who, perhaps, are yet to come.

Proper manhood or womanhood cannot come from children cooped up in small apartments or hotels.

Why it is like a gala night at the opera, Sir Timothy!" she exclaimed. "How dare you pretend that this is Bohemia!"

"It has never been I who have described my entertainments," he reminded her. "They have been called everything—orgies, debauches—everything you can think of. I have never ventured myself to describe them."

Their passage was difficult. Every now and then Sir Timothy was compelled to shake hands with some of his newly arriving guests. At last, however, they reached the little sitting room. Sir Timothy turned back to Wilmore, who hesitated.

"You had better come in, too, Mr. Wilmore, if you will," he invited. "You were with Ledsam the first day we met, and something which I have to say now may interest you."

"If I am not intruding," Wilmore murmured.

They entered the room, still jealously guarded. Sir Timothy closed the door behind them.

CHAPTER XIX

The apartment was one belonging to the older portion of the house and had been, in fact, an annex to the great library. The walls were oak paneled and hung with a collection of old prints. There were some easy chairs, a writing table, and some well laden bookcases. There were one or two bronze statuettes of gladiators, a wonderful study of two wrestlers in ... ornaments. Sir Timothy plunged at once into what he had to say.

"I promised you, Lady Cynthia, and you, Ledsam," he said, "to divulge exactly the truth as regards these much talked of entertainments here. You, Margaret, under present circumstances, are equally interested. You, Wilmore, are Ledsam's friend, and you happen to have an interest in this particular party. Therefore I am glad to have you all here together. The superficial part of my entertainment you have seen. The part which renders it necessary for me to keep closed doors I shall now explain. I give prizes here of considerable value for boxing tests which are conducted under rules of our own. One is due to take place in a very few minutes. The contests vary in character, but I may say that the chief officials of the National Sporting club are usually to be found here, only, of course, in an unofficial capacity. The difference between the contests arranged by me and others is that my men are here to fight. They use sometimes an illegal weight of glove and they sometimes hurt one another. If any two of the boxing fraternity have a grudge against one another—and that often happens—they are permitted here to fight it out, under the strictest control as regards fairness, but practically without gloves at all. You heard of the accident, for instance, to Norris? That happened in my gymnasium. He was knocked out by Burgin. It was a wonderful fight.

"However, I pass on. There is an other class of contest which frequently takes place here. Two boxers place themselves unreservedly in my hands. The details of the match I arrange without their knowledge. They come into the ring without knowing whom they are going to fight. Sometimes they do not know, for my men wear masks. Then we have private matches. There is one tonight. Lord Meadowson and I have a wager of a thousand guineas. He has brought tonight from the East End a boxer who, according to the terms of our bet, has never before engaged in a professional contest. I have brought an amateur under the same conditions. The weight is within a few pounds the same; neither has ever seen the other, only in this case the fight is with regulation gloves and under Queensberry rules."

"Who is your amateur, Sir Timothy?" Wilmore asked harshly.

"Your brother, Mr. Wilmore," was the prompt reply. "You shall see the fight if I have your promise not to attempt in any way to interfere."

Wilmore rose to his feet.

"Do you mean to tell me," he demanded, "that my brother has been deceived here, kept here against his will, to provide amusement for your guests?"

"Mr. Wilmore, I beg that you will be reasonable," Sir Timothy expostulated. "I saw your brother box at his gymnasium in Holborn. My agent made him the offer of the fight. One of my conditions had to be that he came here to train and that whilst he was here he held no communication whatever with the outside world. My trainer has ideas of his own and this he insists upon. Your brother in the end acquiesced. He was at first difficult to deal with as regards this condition, and he did, in fact, I believe, Mr. Ledsam, pay a visit to your office, with the object of asking you to become an intermediary between him and his relatives."

"He began a letter to me," Francis interposed, "and then mysteriously disappeared."

"The mystery is easily explained," Sir Timothy continued. "My trainer, Roger Hagon, a Varsity blue, and the best heavyweight of his year, occupies the chambers above yours. He saw from the window the arrival of Reginald Wilmore, which was according to instructions, as they were to come down to Hatch End together—went down the stairs to meet him and—to cut a long story short—fetched him out of your office, Ledsam, without allowing him to finish his letter. This absolute isolation is a ridiculous condition, perhaps, but Hagon insists upon it, and I can assure you that he knows his business. The mystery, as you have termed it, of his disappearance that morning is that he went upstairs with Hagon for several hours to undergo a medical examination instead of leaving the building forthwith."

"Queer thing I never thought of Hagon," Francis remarked. "As a matter of fact, I never saw him in the Temple and I thought that he had left."

"May I ask," Wilmore intervened, "when my brother will be free to return to his home?"

"Tonight, directly the fight is over," Sir Timothy replied. "Should he be successful, he will take with him a sum of money sufficient to start him in any business he chooses to enter."

Wilmore frowned slightly.

"But surely," he protested, "that would make him a professional pugilist."

"Not at all," Sir Timothy replied. "For one thing, the match is a private one in a private house, and for another the money is a gift. There is no purse. If your brother loses he gets nothing. Will you see the fight, Mr. Wilmore?"

"Yes, I will see it," was the somewhat reluctant assent.

"You will give me your word not to interfere in any way?"

"I shall not interfere," Wilmore promised, "if the men are wearing regulation gloves and the weights are about equal and the conditions are what you say. It is the last thing I should wish to do."

"Capital!" Sir Timothy exclaimed. "Now to pass on. There is one other feature of my entertainments concerning which I have something to say—a series of performances which take place on my launch at odd times. There is one fixed for tonight. I can say little about it except that it is unusual. I am going to ask you, Lady Cynthia, and you, Ledsam, to witness ... When you have seen that you know everything. Then you and I, Ledsam, can ... one another's hands. I shall have something else to say to you, but that is outside the doings here."

"Are we to see the fight in the gymnasium?" Lady Cynthia inquired.

Sir Timothy shook his head.

"I do not allow women there under any conditions," he said. "You and Margaret had better stay here whilst ... It will probably be over in twenty minutes. It will be ... then for us to find our way to the launch. After that, if you have any appetite ... I will order ... Sir Timothy went ... the bell, and some ...

Lady Cynthia smiled.

BIG CROWD TO ATTEND

High School basketeers will endeavor to hit their old stride again tonight when the Greensburg High quintet comes here for a game. The Cokers are anxious to smother their opponents of the evening under a shower of goals and will try their best to return from the slump which has engulfed the squad for the past week.

The coaches say they believe the boys are finally coming around. Passing, which was also poor, has improved a lot and shooting only remains to return to "normal" to assure Connellsville of once again being in a winning stride.

Greensburg has been playing some mushy basketball at times and has been coming to the front recently, handing Latrobe a nasty beating on Thursday evening. The game is certain to attract a big crowd as there are many who will be on hand to see Connellsville even up for defeats on the gridiron at the hands of the Westmoreland county school.

UNITY FRAT SIGNS CONTRACT FOR GAME WITH KUMMER'S FIVE

Terms with Billy Kummer's Butler, Athletic, one of the classiest professional teams in the state, were closed today by the Unity Fraternity for a game to be played here on Thursday, March 15.

The locals are giving Kummer and his team of eight top-notch stars a guarantee of $250 to make the trip. This, with other expenses, makes the total rather high. The game, however, will draw, it is believed, because of the presence of Kummer, whose great playing in Central League days burns with an undying flame in the memory of Connellsvillians.

An effort is being made to arrange an attractive preliminary contest.

Of Interest to Fans.

That Billy Kummer, who is coming here on March 15, can still "toss 'em in" like he used to, was demonstrated recently at Greensburg when he gave an exhibition of foul shooting. He made 25 perfect ones out of just that many attempts and then quit. Kummer was foul shooter for the Cokers.

Frat and Casey Teams Are Marking Time; Are Ready to Open Series

The Casey Club and Unity Fraternity teams are merely marking time until Tuesday evening, when at 8:15 o'clock the two outfits will meet in the first battle of the five-game series for supremacy. Although these teams have been rivals for a number of years, the games were always played in the City League and the present series is the first ever staged between the contending clubs.

The Casey combination seems to be possessed of unexpected strength. The defeat of the Fiji Panthers would indicate this and scores of backers of that team will be on hand to see it "get the edge" on the First.

Little is heard from the fraternity camp. The team held its final practice at the Armory Thursday evening and is "all set." Club members are planning to attend in numbers to give the boys the benefit of their support. For a home-talent series the games are creating more than the usual interest.

Kid Carpentier Is Haggling Over His Share of Fight Gate

With many of the fighters carrying signed contracts, for the boxing show to be held during this month at the Slavish Hall in Connellsville, a few are yet pending. Only one fighter has returned an unsigned contract. This was Kid Carpentier. He failed to specify reasons for his refusal. It has been rumored that the trouble is at the financial end.

Battling Levinsky, whom he was to have fought is already holding a signed contract. Jack Reversa and K. O. Yutzy together with Buck Weaver and Dutch Shaffer are also on the signed list. Negotiations are under way to substitute another pugilist in Carpentier's place.

Coker Reserves Are Defeated by Youngwood High

Playing at Youngwood last night, the Connellsville High School reserves were defeated 30-20. Not a single Varsity man of the High School team was taken to the Westmoreland county town, it being the desire of Coach Settle to give the boys a lay-off and put them in fine shape for the game against Greensburg tonight.

VanGorder was heavy man for the Cokers from the scoring line. He got three field goals and five out of eight attempts from the free line.

Dunbar Township Hi Beats Team of South Brownsville, 33-9

Playing in rare form, the Dunbar Township High School basketball team defeated South Brownsville High School quintet last evening at Leisenring in a one-sided battle, 33-9. The Dunbarites jumped into the lead immediately. The first quarter ended 12-1, Dunbar. The half ended 21-6. The last quarter was marked by stiff defensive work, only one field goal being scored. South Brownsville scored only one field goal.

The Dunbar Township High girls helped the boys make a perfect day and defeated the South Brownsville lassies by a score of 20-13. The Dunbar basketeers jumped into the lead and were never headed.

The school orchestra tuned up between halves.

Answer of Pennsylvania And Monongahela Railroads To Rainey-Wood Complaint

performed by the carriers is at a minimum, in contrast both to usual traffic in bituminous coal used directly for steam or gas fuel purposes and to the traffic in beehive coke." The defendant companies deny the allegations that the service thus performed is "far less costly than service required in handling beehive coke and the usual traffic in coal for general fuel purposes"; that the outbound movement of coke from the Swedeland plant affords respondent "profitable traffic which would not be available if the industries supplied procured their requirements from the Connellsville or Latrobe districts," and that "the complainant also affords a profitable traffic in the shipment of by-products which would not be available to the industries supplied if the coal converted at the Swedeland plant were converted into coke in the Connellsville Region."

It is conceded that "the rail movement of beehive coke is, to some extent, variable," but not to the extent alleged. "There is," it is rejoined, "also variability in the movement of commodities shipped to and by the complainant." It is specifically denied "that the amount of revenue to respondents from transportation service incident to the supply of coke requirements to eastern Pennsylvania by complainant and other operators of by-product coke plants is far greater than respondents would derive if said requirements were supplied by beehive coke."

The averment of the complainant that "the equipment used for the transportation of coke is substantially the same as that used for transportation of coal," is denied, the respondents asserting that "from time to time they use special cars for coke, although it is true that at times cars used customarily for coal are used for coke, or vice versa. It is admitted as true that "coal is of a greater specific gravity than coke," but the respondents require further information before admitting or denying the allegations of complainant" as to the exact relationship of coal and coke in the matter of specific gravity."

With respect to the averment that the difference in the number of cars required to transport coal and coke over long hauls, and the long and empty return movement increases the cost of loaded movement to the carriers, the answer of the defendant companies avers that "to the extent that cars loaded with coal and coke return to the point of origin light, the volume of empty movement is necessarily dependent upon the number of cars initially moved. This is a truism which should not require an answer."

It is denied, as alleged by complainant, "that the burden of transportation charges on by-product coke is so great that if relief from these charges is not given, complainant and other owners of by-product coke plants will be deprived of their investment therein, and the carriers deprived of the greater and more constant revenue which they earn if the coke requirements of eastern Pennsylvania are supplied by by-product coke and not by beehive coke."

The defendant, assert they "are without information to the effect that the by-product coke industry in eastern Pennsylvania is hazardous or is removed from profitable operation," but they deny that any such conditions, even if they exist, are due, in whole or in part, to 'excessive, unjust, unreasonable, or unduly discriminatory transportation charges.'" They also deny that such alleged transportation charges will prevent the complainant taking "an important part in the future development of public gas supply throughout the Philadelphia District."

Proof is asked to be furnished concerning the allegations that beehive coke manufactured in the Connellsville and Latrobe districts is transported by the respondents over similar through routes to other points in eastern Pennsylvania to which by-product coke is shipped from Swedeland at rates set forth in the complainant's petition.

Request is made that proof be required of the allegations relating to comparative delivered costs of beehive coke from the Connellsville Region and by-product coke from Swedeland, the respondents denying "the inference sought to be drawn from the allegations that the rates charged for the transportation of the complainant's coal are 'unjust and unreasonable,' or otherwise in violation of law."

"These defendants deny that the general adjustment of their rates on coal and coke from points of production in western Pennsylvania was established before the production of coke in by-product ovens began in eastern Pennsylvania, and they deny that any haphazard or unjust rates are in effect on their traffic. They also deny that there has been a lack of consideration of the rates applicable on by-product coke." It is also denied that the respondents have withheld from complainant "the benefit of facts and circumstances which justly entitle it to a basis of rates and charges affecting its by-product coke operations to enable it to compete reasonably and successfully with the beehive coke industry."

General denial is entered of all averments of the complainant relative to the existing rates and charges being "unjust and unreasonable and unduly and unlawfully discriminatory against the complainant and against the by-product coke industry in eastern Pennsylvania, and unduly and unlawfully preferential to the beehive coke industry and traffic."

The defendants pray "that as to them the complaint filed in this proceeding be dismissed."

NELSON GIRLS ARE EASY WINNERS OVER UNIONTOWN LASSES

Nelson's Girls went to Uniontown last night and, playing on the largest floor in their experience, it also being canvas-covered, defeated the Goodfellowship Club girls of that place by an overwhelming score. The final result was 20-4.

Connellsville's lassies took the lead at the beginning and constantly increased it. Their opponents were able to offer little or no opposition and did not possess the shooting ability displayed by Nelsons.

The girls played before a crowd of many hundreds who had gathered for the High School-Pitt Freshman game. The speed and cleverness of the Colter lassies was an eye-opener to the Uniontown fans, some of whom had never witnessed girl basketball developed to such a classy style.

Buick Cushions Are Comfortable On All Roads

The cushions on Buick open cars are supported on double-deck springs. The upper springs, light and easy acting, smooth out slight road irregularities, while the larger and stronger lowers absorb the bumps that cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom". Two pads of curled hair between springs and French plaited upholstery give that final softness and assure the purchaser a cushion that will stand up.
